

Types of Church Websites, Their Content, & Supporting Technology

There are three general types of church websites. They are shown here with the typical rights and content associated with them. Examples of technology that support each are noted. Facebook is external to these types of sites. The settings and publishing tools of blogging services and social network platforms can be used for publishing and very limited community or none at all.

